VOLUNTEERS:-

Often in our business organizations we find that we call for volunteers to undertake a responsibility or to take on some extra work, or sometimes we may serve in a service organization which is full of volunteers.

The key thing to remember with a volunteer is that you can not fire them. You can ask them to do a job, they will commit with the best of their abilities and all they are looking for is recognition on completion of the task that they have used their skills and contributions.

Volunteers still need to have standards, they need to have guidelines, normal management support but even more so they need to be recognized for the contribution that they did and the success.

The world is made up of many volunteers who happily step up and say Yes I'll take on that task but sadly many managers, leaders and Presidents forget that the world of the volunteer is a very practical one, it needs to be nurtured and recognized. The next time you hear a volunteer saying that they will do it make sure you take note of their name and praise them afterwards for taking it on board.

SALES BREAKFASTS:-

I have started in Auckland a monthly Sales Breakfast in association with the Sales & Marketing Institute of New Zealand. This will take place on the first Thursday of each month and will be expanded to Wellington & Christchurch during 2008.

Each breakfast will feature some stimulating speakers focused on achieving better results in sales.

The speaker for the March 6th meeting will be Bill Potter & Richard Gee who will debate – Attitude or Motivation, which works.

Your investment in these is only $50.00 and you can book on my website www.geewiz.co.nz to attend.

PROFILING:-

The art of profiling your top sales people and then turning these into master models for hiring future sales reps is proving to be a very good way of building a successful sales team.

If you would like to profile yourself or any members of your sales team log on to the following information, your investment is only $150.00 per person and I will happily review the results with you, either via email, phone or in person. Each profile is totally confidential and it is profiled against New Zealand based and international based databases.

The website address is : www.extdisc.com/edo/personalanalysis/?lang=AUS

Or if English is not your choice of language go to www.extdisc.com/edo and select language you want.

SALES ARE DOWN, I'M DOWN, PEOPLE WON'T DECIDE:-

One of the really interesting international newsletters that I enjoy is one by Jeffery Gitomer who publishes a weekly sales caffeine and talks about a number of interesting stimulating ideas. One of his most recent ones was focused on the fact that sales are down, so I am going to quote some information from him.

“Times are tough, what is your point?”

“Well as much as I would love to tell you to quit whining and get to work, I’d rather not sound like our boss.”

“Hope: there is business out there just not much of it.”

“Reality: people will still be buying even if the quantity is lower the question is will they be buying from you?”

“When things are not going well you have 2.5 options.

1. Do something about it.
2. Do nothing about it.
Complain about it.

“Lack of sales is not a problem, peoples indecision is not a problem, lack of motivation is not a problem, all three are symptoms, if you are looking to cure you ills, you had better look deeper than complaining.”

“Here is where to start – look for the clues

Clue 1: Plan less act more

Clue 2: Plan for today the night before

Clue 3: Plan for the week on Sunday

Clue 4: Plan 6 valuable or money meetings

Clue 5: Plan actions and activities that lead to completion

Clue 6: Plan successes not just actions

Clue 6.5: Now is the time, you know the old expression, is no time like the present, I say there is only the present.

“Attitude Clue, if your drama factor exceeds your sales results its time for an extreme attitude make over.”

“When sales are slow big companies cut rather than invest, they say advertise after the recover or market after the recovery, I’ll train more after the recovery, wondering all the while while things are not improving as they whip their sales people.”

“They react rather than proact.”

“Sales drop even further, morale drops and key people quit and as a result recovery takes longer.”

“As a sales person here is what to do, look at who you are and how you engage.”

“Help your customers, if your business is down it means that others are down, give them business building ideas or sales leads, send them an idea a week, they will remember your help after they recover.”

“Get closer to your customers, work there for a day, get to understand why things are slow and we will all take to make them better.”

“Position yourself as a resource, not just as a sales person, communicate value messages to your customers every week.”

“Get endorsements from your most loyal customers and use them in testimonials ad campaign, your customers will love you and tell others.”

“Re-dedicate yourself to the present your ability to win is in direct proportion to your desire to remain a student and the intensity of your attitude and enthusiasm today.”

“Caution, it is not just one thing to get back in the game it’s a bit of all these elements, the good news is you control our destiny, that’s why you got into sales in the first place.”

Jeffery Gitomer is the author of the Little Red Book of Selling and other books on sales and marketing and he runs seminars and sales meetings and programmes in the US.

You can contact him on www.gitomer.com and you can register to get yourself a copy of this wonderful little weekly enews.

Good comments, good stuff try it.

BRAND DAMAGE:-

Brands are so precious when they are built up, they are all about perception, they are all about customer understanding the meaning of what your brand is delivering.

It has been very sad recently to witness a major New Zealand franchise damage their brand very badly because of the way they handled a fraudulent activity by one of their master franchisors.

The media got hold of it, they showed the owners in the media and they reported back comments and they continued to dig back everytime showing the companies logo and brand.

From a marketing perspective your brand is very precious, it can take months and years to build up a perception of trust in your brand and if you are not careful it can take minutes to destroy that trust in the eyes of your existing customers, your future customers, your suppliers and your peer group within the industry.

Franchises are all about branding, often the franchise is about buying into the brand.

If you have a brand make sure that you have some strategies in place to deal with when things go wrong to make sure that your brand does not get damaged.

GEEWIZ SPECIAL OFFERS:-

A number of the readers of Gee wiz have contributed some special offers for this month.

Geoff Wake is a Neuro – Symantics Trainer who is really practical person, and he is focusing on accessing personal genius, which is a great programme on self leadership and personal mastery.

You can email Andrew or phone him on 021 540 980.

Richard Kelly phone 021 277 3021 or email richard@wilfordmotorsport.co.nz is running a rally team in the New Zealand Rally Championships and he is seeking companies that are interested in using media exposure to market their brand.

If you want to make sure that you get to the forefront of a great media event get in touch with Richard.

How would you like to know what figures are, particularly when you are looking at statistics?

Matt from Time to Define Limited Mob: 021 866 055 or email ttd1@ihug.co.nz has a very good website concept where you can order up figures and statistics on any area of New Zealand www.newzealandfigures.co.nz and one of the examples that he has created is a local one www.northlandfigures.co.nz.

Very good for building up statistics.

The Auckland MasterMind meets on the last Thursday of each month (except December) from 7.00 – 9.30pm.

The Auckland MasterMind is hosted by Chris Bridgeman, who has studied with a wide range of personal growth & wealth creation teachers over the last 10 years. Visit www.AucklandMasterMind.com to find out more information!!
